TERM CHANGE

1. Black children, children of black, and black ones will now be children of (the) dark, or dark ones. It just sounds better and avoids certain bad connotations.

2. We overlooked the importance of this, but dark ones make a distinction between themselves and those who don't come from the outside, whether they're regular humans or cursed ones. However, humans and cursed humans call everyone from the outside the same thing. To them, "outsider" and "cursed one" are synonymous.

As such, children of the dark will now call who aren't from the Outside foreigners.

Humans and cursed humans will now children of the dark and cursed people as cursed ones or Outsiders. (including variations of "those who are outside" etc.)

The opposite is Insiders, which includes variations of "those on the inside" etc. This term is unchanged.
